THEATER PARTY

Monday, there was one girl who got several whippings and her ears pulled. Who? Why? Miss Anna Ruth Lykins was fourteen years old. By supper time she thought she could not live thru another thing but got new life when her mother surprised her by taking her and six other girls to the theater to see "The Shining Hour." This made them all feel like grown up young ladies.

The girls gave Miss Lykins several nice gifts. After the movie, they went to Miss Lykins' home where they played games and were served with fruit salad and cake. Altho her mother could not be with her all the time everything was planned perfectly.

Those who enjoyed this delightful and unusual occasion were: Misses Betty Jean Nickell, Jean Whit, Geraldine Nickell, Jerry Nell Rose, Lovel Brong, Isabelle Caskey and Anna Ruth Lykins. These and her many other friends hope to have the pleasure of seeing her have many more happy birthdays.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

Readers of the Courier who find life interesting and wish to live a long time will be interested in the health advice of Dr. Malcolm MacEachern, of Chicago.

The Chicago surgeon says that everybody should work eight hours, play eight hours and sleep eight in every twenty-four. Moreover, people eat too much, worry too much and overlook teeth, tonsil and appendix infection.

The doctor urges a balanced diet. He would end worry, which retards the functions of vital organs. It may be comparatively easy to most people to secure a balanced diet, but the prescription "end worry" will give many individuals a harder job.

We are not expert in the affairs of medicine, but nevertheless, we suspect that the Chicago surgeon has the key to good health and long life.

X-RAY CLINIC HERE MAY 4

Dr. John B. Floyd, of the State Department of Health, will be in West Liberty, Thursday, May 4, with state's traveling X-ray clinic, to take X-ray pictures of the chests of all those in this county who want them. The charge for this service is only the cost of materials. Excellent X-rays of the chest, interpreted by the experts of the state health department will be taken this one day only for the cost of the films, which we expect to run about $1.25. Such a service as this ordinarily costs $10 as anyone will know who has ever paid for one at a hospital.

The state X-ray clinic comes to this county at the request of the Morgan County Health Department, in response to the need for a check-up on the hundreds of people in this county who have been found to have a positive reaction to the Tuberculin Test, as well as for check up on the considerable number whom the doctors have reason to suspect of having been infected with tuberculosis.

The month of April has been designated throughout the country as the season for a vigorous campaign TO FIND EARLY TUBERCULOSIS. It is the early case of tuberculosis that stands the best chance of cure. In fact, practically every case of tuberculosis goes through an early stage, when if it were found and properly treated, a cure would result.

The tragedy is that even to this day, with all of our work to fight tuberculosis, still eight out of every ten cases that are admitted to hospitals and sanatoriums are late cases, whose golden opportunity to stop the spread of the disease has already slipped by.

GREAT ADVANCES have been made in recent years in the treatment of tuberculosis. No drug is of any avail. We have to depend upon the natural defenses of the body. In most cases, however, the body will wall off the germs and stop their spread. IF THE AFFECTED PART CAN BE PUT AT REST. But the problem of resting the lung is not easy, because it is necessary to breathe in order to live. True, REST IN BED greatly reduces the amount of breathing that is necessary, but this is not always enough. So, the modern treatment of tuberculosis is to put the lung at rest by surgical means. Almost complete for one lung can be obtained by COLLAPSE treatment, such as PNEUMOTHORAX, that is, putting air into the chest cavity on one side, so as to let the lung collapse and lie quiet for a time, while the other lung does all the breathing.

WHEN ONLY ONE LUNG IS INVOLVED, and when there have not been adhesions formed, that hold the lung to the chest wall, treatment of this sort is a godsend to the sufferer from this disease. Every year it saves thousands of lives.

BUT WHEN BOTH LUNGS ARE INVOLVED, to collapse one lung only doubles the load on the other. THE GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY has been lost.

TUBERCULOSIS MUST BE FOUND EARLY. THE X-RAY is our best means of finding early tuberculosis. The X-ray will show up many cases of early active tuberculosis that cannot be found by any other means. The X-ray enables us to SEE the lung structures, as if the body were a GHOST, or semi-transparent substance. The X-ray is also our best source of information in conducting the fight against the disease, once it is found.

IF you have had a tuberculin test and the reaction was POSITIVE, or IF you have ever COUGHED UP BLOOD, or

IF you have ever lived in the same house with any one who COUGHED UP BLOOD, or who was known to have active tuberculosis, or if for any other reason you think you may have been infected with tuberculosis, you should CONSULT YOUR DOCTOR or the health officer, and if he advises you to have an X-ray picture taken of your lungs, you should not miss this opportunity to have it done at minimum cost and inconvenience. The state X-ray clinic will not be in this county again till next year.—WALLACE BYRD, M.D. Director, MORGAN COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Attend Kiwanis Meeting

Prof. Winfred L. Carpenter, W. C. Reeves, director of the high school band and Roy Nickell, teacher of vocational agriculture, attended the Kiwanis meeting at Salyersville Tuesday night of last week.

For REPRESENTATIVE

In another column will be found the regular announcement of C. C. May of Woodbend for the Democratic nomination for Representative to the General Assembly from this, the One Hundredth Legislative District.

Mr. May is the present representative and is familiar with the work at Frankfort. It will be a major aim during his term to secure a more workable basis for the harmony of all Democrats.

The State of Kentucky has taken a leading position in late years in road work. Mr. May has taken an active interest in and supported this program from the start. It was he who introduced and secured the passage of the bill placing all the roads of the state in the primary road system. It is to be expected that during the next two years Morgan county will reap many benefits in the way of better roads to every section of the county.

Mr. May taught in the public schools of the county for thirty years and during his service in the legislature has had a leading part in helping to better the conditions of our rural schools. A larger per capita school appropriation, free text books for rural schools, better pay for teachers and a greater opportunity for the country boy and girl, have had and will continue to have Mr. May's support.

Old age assistance is financed jointly by the federal and state governments. The top limit of payment by the federal government is fixed at $30 per month. When Kentucky decided to cooperate with the federal government in taking care of its aged needy people it was found that the finances of the state warranted a payment of a maximum of not more than $15. The state is now in a stronger financial position and Mr. May feels—as do many others—that the limit of payment to the needy be raised to meet the limit of $30 as provided in the federal act.

The present tax structure of the state is sound and it will not be necessary to increase any taxes during the years just ahead. Indeed it is entirely probable that some taxes can be reduced. It will be a real pleasure to Mr. May to have an opportunity to assist in working out a lower tax rate for the taxpayers of Morgan county and the State of Kentucky.

TOBACCO BED TROUBLES

Flea Beetle

Several farmers are reporting damage being done to tobacco plants by the tobacco flea beetle. This beetle is generally considered one of the most destructive pests of tobacco, both in the bed and in the field. In the bed, plants may be destroyed by the flea beetle in two or three days.

A dust containing Paris Green, 1 part; Lead arsenate, 5 parts; Hydrate lime, 4 parts. Mix well and apply at the rate of 4 pounds per 100 sq. yds. Repeat the application every 4 to 7 days until control is obtained.

Blue Mold

Due to the large amount of rain we are most likely to have more Blue Mold in our tobacco beds, 2,000 circulars were distributed among farmers this last winter on Blue Mold. You that had Blue Mold last year know the seriousness of this disease. The plants are destroyed in a few days.

I want to call your attention to applying your first application of Bluestone-lime treatment. Apply first treatment when plants are just established in the bed and producing the first leaves. The mixture is applied to the bed with an ordinary 10 quart sprinkling can without removing the cotton cover from the bed. Make a second application in about 10 days. A 50-gallon container of the mixture will treat 200 square yards.

How to prepare Bluestone-lime mixture:

1. Fill a clean 50-gallon barrel or oil drum three-fourths full of water strained thru a cloth.
2. Thoroughly mix 4 pounds of commercial hydrated lime in 3 or 4 gallons of strained water. Hydrated lime is the powdered lime in paper sacks commonly sold by lumber yards.
3. Dissolve 3 pounds of powdered bluestone in about 4 gallons of water in a wooden bucket or crock. If powdered bluestone, which dissolves readily, is not available, beat the crystals into a fine powder before trying to dissolve them. Your hardware dealer can get powdered bluestone for you.
4. Pour the lime paste into the barrel of water and stir. While stirring vigorously, add the bluestone solution slowly.
5. Add enough water to make 50 gallons.
6. Stir the mixture each time the sprinkling can is filled. CAUTION. The water, barrel, and other containers should be free from bits of material which will clog the rose of the sprinkler. The rose should be easily removable for cleaning.—YANDAL WRATHER, County Agent.

TO BE SOLD FOR HIGH DOLLAR

Lexington, Ky., April 11, 1939
Editor Licking Valley Courier,
West Liberty, Ky.

Dear Sir:

Some one told me that your paper carried a statement last week to the effect that I had bought the Commercial Hotel building, that is the brick hotel at the corner of Main and Court streets. That is a mistake. I have not bought it. It has been ordered sold at public auction, and I am advised that it will be sold, to pay debts and expenses of the administration of the estate of L. P. Hane, on the 4th Monday in May. It will be sold to the highest and best bidder. I have no interest in it other than as attorney for some of the heirs to see that it brings the most possible. It is a good piece of property and should bring a good price on account of its splendid location. I hope you will make the correction in your paper, since it would not be fair to the estate to leave the impression that it has been sold to me or any one else. It will go for the high dollar.

S. MONROE NICKELL

NOTED SPEAKER TO COME

On April 26, Mr. Norman K. Durham will address the local Kiwanis Club. Mr. Durham is President of the Louisville Kiwanis Club, Manager of the Guardian Life Insurance Company in Louisville, and a very pleasing speaker. This program is a part of the program which the Louisville Kiwanis Club is sponsoring in each of the Kiwanis Clubs thruout Kentucky during the month of April in recognition of its Louisville Day in Kentucky.

One of the principal activities of the Kiwanis Clubs in Kentucky, of Kiwanis International, is the attention given to underprivileged children. There is no definite program for this work, but it is left to the discretion of each club to do what it thinks best to assist some child or some group of children, who otherwise would be neglected.

BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON

Mrs. F. H. Byars surprised Miss Nell Caskey with a birthday luncheon on Thursday, April 13. The luncheon was complete with main dishes, salad, peaches and birthday cake. Mrs. Byars made the birthday cake in two layers, the top layer smaller, iced in white with the trimmings and the word "Nell" in green.

Among the presents Miss Caskey received was a bunch of red roses, one for each year. We must not tell how many there were.

Those who enjoyed this delightful luncheon were: Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Byars and daughter, Peggy Ann, Miss Nell Caskey, Mrs. J. W. Johnson and Miss Margaret Brong. All her many friends join in wishing Miss Caskey many more happy birthdays.

Communion Meeting

The Church of God congregation at Cannel City of which J. W. Benton is the pastor will hold its regular communion services immediately after Sunday school on Sunday, April 23. There will be preaching on Saturday evening, April 22 and also in the afternoon on Sunday.

STATE BARRIERS TO TRADE

Every State in the nation has some sort of trade barrier legislation, according to Dr. F. E. Melder, economic adviser to the Council of State Governments.

Many states enforce "buy-at-home" laws to give preference to the products within their borders. This may benefit local businesses, unable to meet outside competition, but, in general, the taxpayers have to foot the bill.

The multiplicity of trade barriers that exist in the United States seriously threatens the continued existence of the "free trade" policies which are generally credited with playing an important part in the internal development of American industry.

This subject has been the cause of considerable discussion recently in many sections of the United States and, apparently, a concerted effort will be made to eliminate these barriers as far as possible. While one state may think it can secure an advantage by erecting an artificial barrier to trade from other areas, this is short-lived, because the habit spreads and the multiplicity of trade barriers tend to reduce the trade of every state.

FOR AVERAGE PERSONS

It's a good idea for the average citizen to keep up with national and international affairs, but it is a better idea for him to keep up with his personal affairs.

Among these, one would include business interests and also the development of personality, which is so often neglected by individuals.

There may not be much that an individual may accomplish in solving the great problems that baffle statesmen, but there is no reason why any person cannot accomplish advancement. Despite the belief in luck and fate, this is accomplished by hard work, including the use of such intelligence that the individual possesses.

NIPPER

James Nipper was born July 10, 181, and departed this life, April 13, 1939. He was united in marriage to Sarah Margaret McGuire, May 8, 1893, who departed this life a year ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss nine children—Edgar of Licking River, George, Holly, John, Stanley, Courtney and Mrs. William Lewis, Mrs. Earl Stacy and Mrs. Clyde Peyton all of this place.

Mr. Nipper had been confined to his room for quite awhile. He will be sadly missed in the home and by his neighbors.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. Jim Cottle. He was laid to rest in the Perry cemetery.

WILLIAMS

A. J. Williams departed this life, April 16, 1939, age 73 years, one month and 27 days. Mr. Williams, better known as Judge, was born February 20, 1866, on Williams Creek, where he was laid to rest in the Williams cemetery, by the side of his wife, who preceded him to rest 8 years before.

Mr. Williams had been bedfast since December 26, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Verna Lacy. For the past two months he has been unable to help himself, but he was cheerful till the last and passed away as going to sleep. The last six weeks he seemed to have found sweet peace and was unusually patient.

He leaves besides his relatives to mourn his passing a host of friends.

Mr. Williams was married July 22, 1891, to Miss Marilla Daniel of Flat Gap, Johnson county, who at that time was a teacher at Dingus. Later they lived in Johnson county then in Rowan and a short time in Ohio, but spent most of their lives in Morgan county. The following children survive: Mrs. Verna Lacy, West Liberty; Mrs. Dan J. Harmon, Wayland; Mrs. H. C. Conley, Portsmouth, Ohio; Luke Williams of Cincinnati, Ohio; and eight grandchildren. They were all present except Luke, who was unable to leave his wife on account of illness. Mr. Williams leaves one brother, W. W. Williams of Matthew, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Williams, of Circleville, Ohio.

Rev. Barlow of Indiana was his nurse the past three months. He was kind, painstaking and attentive, giving him the best of care. His children did all that human hands and loving hearts could do to alleviate his suffering and make him comfortable.

Rev. Barlowe had charge of the services at the cemetery.

We join the entire community in extending our sympathy to the family.

EASTERN STAR INSPECTION

Paulina Chapter 360 was duly inspected by our Deputy Grand Worthy Matron Ida Mae Henry, acting for Grand Worthy Matron Hattie Hoffman. The following were introduced by our Worthy Matron Lillian Blair, Sister Maud Perry, a member of the Grand Committee of Home and Relief, Brother Charley Henry, member of the Grand Lodge and Member of Committee on Dispensation. Brother Gobei Ratliff, member of the Grand Lodge and Key Man of District 32.

Morehead Chapter with 15 members were present. Two of the Morehead members were present 17 years ago when the Morehead Chapter came to West Liberty and sponsored the origination of the Paulina Chapter 360. Paulina Chapter 360 had six charter members present. Olive Hill Chapter was present with two members. Pan Bowl Chapter was present with one member. The visiting members contributed much to the good of the order by not only their presence but also by their expressions of good will toward one another and faith in the belief that a good deed well done will be remembered.

Several encouraging talks were given by members of the home chapter.

Mrs. C. P. Henry, Deputy Grand Matron and acting Grand Worthy Matron addressed the members in the most efficient manner.

Miss Dorothy Bellamy received the degrees of our order and Mrs. Margaret Stacy was reinstated to membership.

The largest crowd of this year was present and a very enjoyable social hour and refreshments followed the closing of the chapter.

FARMERS' COLUMN

TOBACCO SITUATION

Tobacco growers probably will sell their 1939 crops under demand conditions about the same as prevailed during the 1938-39 marketing season, is the opinion of Dr. H. B. Price, of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

According to the spring outlook report on tobacco, issued by the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the prospects are for stable or moderately improved general business conditions thruout the remainder of 1939, and for a continuance of the present high level of cigarette consumption.

Burley growers report prospects for a decrease of a little more than 3 percent in their 1939 plantings, compared with the 1938 acreage. "Assuming a five-yr. average yield," Dr. Price said, "the crop this year will be about 324 millions pounds compared with the present estimate of 335 million pounds for the 1938 crop. Burley stocks on October 1, 1939, are expected to show a slight increase over a year earlier."

Again quoting from the outlook report, Dr. Price said that the burley outlook favors about the same or slightly larger domestic consumption of cigarettes and smoking mixtures in the 1939-40 season, and demand for the 1939 burley crop "may be about the same as for the 1938 production." A large proportion of the 1938 crop consisted of smoking grades which brought lower prices relative to burley on the heavy side than in previous years.

The fire-cured acreage for 1939 is indicated at about 12 percent smaller than in 1938. Growers of dark air-cured tobacco report intentions to reduce their plantings this year about 11 percent. With average yields on these acreages in 1939, crops would turn out about the same production as the record low of fire-cured and dark air-cured produced in 1938.

These smaller acreages of dark types appear about in line with the downward trend in the demand and disappearance of these tobaccos, Dr. Price pointed out. Total supplies of the dark tobaccos probably will be even smaller in 1939-40 than in the present season. "It is reasonable to believe," he added, "that the average quality of the new crops will turn out superior to the lower average of the fire-cured and dark air-cured produced in 1938."

Home Convenience
An increase in the number of household conveniences has resulted from home demonstration work in Ballard county, Kentucky, according to a survey made by Mary Lou Jackson, county home agent. She found 151 farm homes with electricity; 195, running water; 58, telephones; 155, radios; 195, sanitary toilets; 70, sinks; 26, pumps. Only 25 had washing machines. Eighty-two of the women interviewed drive automobiles, 79 make their clothes and 37 the clothes of their children, while 97 buy their clothes.

Special Service
On Sunday, April 30, Dr. Banks will preach at the Christian church instead of his regular appointment on the fourth Sunday in May. This fifth Sunday in April service will be Rally Day for the Orphan's Home, and his schoolmates and many friends and dinner will be served in the basement of the church.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE
Saturday night, Rev. and Mrs. Roscoe Brong sent Joseph Johnson word to bring them a paper after he delivered to his regular subscribers. When he stepped in the door he was surprised to see a large group of friends who were singing "Happy Birthday." Of course, they insisted that he open his presents first. Then all enjoyed the evening playing games.

There was a cake with candles on the table when Joseph first arrived. He blew all the candles out the first try. Mrs. Brong served the birthday cake, cookies, and fruit salad to those present.

This was Joseph's sixteenth birthday and his schoolmates and many friends join in wishing him many more.

IMPROVED FARMING

Twenty-four Kentucky counties which have had farm agents since the inauguration of agricultural extension work in 1914, will this spring observe the 25th anniversary of the establishment of this work to help improve conditions on the farm. In most counties there will be a dinner for farmers, homemakers, 4-H club members and others interested in agricultural improvement. The progress of a quarter-century will be reviewed and improvements in the farms and the farm homes noted.

Many farm practices have been improved as a result of the farm agent and the agricultural extension work, it is pointed out. Some of these developments in Kentucky include the growing acreages of korean lespedeza, the extensive use of limestone, marl and superphosphate, the seeding of winter cover and pasture crops and of grasses, the improvement of beef cattle, sheep and hogs, the development of dairying and poultry raising, the control of livestock diseases, the conservation of the soil, and the development of 4-H clubs.

All of the 120 Kentucky counties now have farm agents and more than half of them have home demonstration agents. Farm women have organized homemakers' clubs to study better methods of homemaking, with emphasis on health, improved diet, the home production of vegetables, fruit and meat, and better living on farms.

With KENTUCKY Editors

About 25,000 seedlings, principally black locust, have been purchased in Butler county to set on badly washed land. In some sections of the county to top soil is gone and erosion now is carrying away the sub-soil, according to County Agent S. B. Kent.—Big Sandy News.

It requires years of hard work and right living for man or woman to build up a good reputation, but some unworthy little person can tear down whole walls of it, with one sneering remark, to those always ready to believe the worst rather than the best about their neighbors.—The Shelby Sentinel.

WITH KY EDS

Henry Garrett, 76, of Dallas, Texas, says he has patented an automobile carburetor that with one gallon of water mixed with a can of ordinary lye, sodium hydroxide, can do the work of 2,000 gallons of gasoline. The only adjustment necessary in present automobiles will be to adapt the piston chambers to the more powerful explosion.—Dawson Springs Progress.

Former Mayor Ike Ginsburg and former Commissioners H. B. Stallard, John Burch and Joe Johnston and former City Clerk E. L. Johnson, of Middlesboro, have filed libel suits totaling $250,000 against Mayor W. K. Evans, Commissioners Doyle Bird and George W. Shoffner as the result of the publication of an audit made by J. H. Lee, accountant. On the basis of the audit the present city officials sued the former officeholders for $160,000, allegedly due the city.—The Pineville Sun.

Chester Casey, 26, and Emby McKeehan, Jr., 23, both of Corbin, met instant death about midnight Saturday night when their car collided with a Silver Fleet truck just north of the Little Laurel bridge, four miles south of London. Three companions miraculously escaped death as the body of the car was most completely demolished. Edward Rogers suffered brain concussion and was removed to Pennington Hospital in a serious condition, but it is believed he will recover. Oval Jones and Howard Parker, also in the car, an Olds sedan, were less injured and taken to their homes in Corbin.—The Sentinel Echo.

WASHINGTON NOTES

French Buy Planes

The French Government continues to buy airplanes in this country, having recently ordered 100 light bombers, which brings the total of such orders to 715. The sensation created in this country last year when France began buying warplanes here died down and the recent order was accepted as a routine transaction.

Capital Airport

Actual construction has begun on the colossal airport on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, near Washington. The site of the airport will be reclaimed from the marshes between Washington and Alexandria. When completed, in early 1940, the airport will have cost around $10,000,000.

WPA "Deadwood"

In cutting the WPA fund from $150,000,000 to $100,000,000 the House Appropriations Committee estimates that 88,975 out of the three million persons on relief are not actually in need of relief work. Since January, the WPA has been eliminating "deadwood" and a nation-wide canvass of its roll indicates that 3,000 aliens will be dropped, together with those not in actual need and others holding political posts. Incidentally, if Congress adds $100,000,000 to the relief appropriation, it will bring the total for the present fiscal year to $2,163,868,406, compared with $1,427,701,994 in 1938, $1,833,456,971 in 1937 and $1,270,235,065 in 1936.

Fingerprints

The War Department has ordered something like 70,000 civilian employees to be fingerprinted. Already, nearly 30,000 fingerprints of employees are in the records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. No explanation of the order is given, but only temporary unskilled laborers will be exempted from the fingerprint rule.

Monopoly Inquiry

The Temporary National Economic Committee, generally known as the Monopoly Committee, has requested $600,000 for continuation of its work during this year. The Senate Judiciary Committee has made a favorable report on the request. The Committee includes members from the Senate, House and Executive department and has been operating on an original appropriation of $500,000.

Food Stamps

Early next month the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation will begin the food stamp program for distribution of surplus food. It is planned to have the program in operation in six cities early in June. After a two or four months' trial period, it will be decided whether to extend the program. Blue and orange colored stamps will be issued to relief clients who will exchange them for food.

MEDICINE AS A VOCATION

The medical profession differs sharply from most commercial pursuits. It has no trade unions or monopolies.

It is absolutely essential for the existence of the medical profession that it have a high code of ethics, and to do this, it must of necessity take in only men of character.

It is maintained by many writers that the medical profession is overcrowded. There is no doubt but that some of the fields in the specialties of medicine are overcrowded. On the other hand, there is a crying demand for physicians who have had special training in such fields as psychiatry, public health, and physical therapy. There is also faulty distribution. That is to say, the large cities are overcrowded, but the small towns and community centers are far from being oversupplied with physicians that are practicing the type of medicine which may be obtained in our large cities.

Now the question naturally arises: How may one enter the field of medicine? It should be pointed out in the beginning that it is far better for only those who have ample financial support and better than average ability, resourcefulness, character and health to cast their lot in a medical career.

It is to be remembered that from 12,000 to 15,000 persons apply yearly for admission to medical schools when there are less than 6,000 selected for the freshman class. To get into medical training, one must have high ranking qualifications.

The selection of a college whose premedical courses are acceptable to the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association is important. Although not required by all medical schools, a college degree is recommended. Finally, one should make a study with a competent adviser of a number of medical schools which are members of the Association of the American Medical Colleges, and select the one best suited to his needs.

After receiving a degree in medicine, one should plan to devote one to five years interning in accredited hospitals before entering the independent practice of medicine.—Dr. JOHN WALKER MOORE.

Frequently automobiles coming out of a private road or driveway feel that they have undisputed right to enter the main thoroughfare. Recently, this question was sent to me: "Does a driver of a car entering a street or road from a private road or driveway have the right of way over all vehicles approaching on the street or road?"

No—decidedly not. The driver should stop to see that the street or road is reasonably clear. The driver of a vehicle on the street or road may not know there is a private road or driveway there.

You are not in the line of traffic when you come on to a road from a private driveway, so until you are sure you can get into the line of traffic without an accident, wait—be alert—be careful.

DO WE NEED INDOCTRINATION?

If I could clarify all issues connected with indoctrination, I would feel that this paper that I am going to read would be worth while. I am calling this paper "Indoctrination In Our Schools." Indoctrination is closely allied with the word "inculcation" whose original significance was to stamp in with the heel. It does not mean physical stamping in but it means stamping in in the mental sense. Perhaps a brief history of its use should be given. For the most part early schools attempted to indoctrinate boards of education. Prior to 1920 they were anxious to indoctrinate the children with characteristics they believed important in building character. The examples of these could be unlimited—modesty, sense of sacredness, thrift, anti-alcoholism, loyalty, to the constitution, and reverence for higher beings. In 1920 a group of educational men began to shake the minds of other people. They looked upon education as a process of experiencing. They thought of indoctrination as teaching children how to think and education as teaching children what to think. From their point of view all indoctrination was bad. They also believed indoctrination hindered personal development. Later about 1930 some people believed that the school should launch a theory of its own such as building a social order.

Now, I think we ought to raise the question of what we are talking about when we use the term indoctrination. There are two definite view points:

1. Some consider it to be anything to teach.
2. Others say it can occur only where there are controversial issues. On controversial or uncertain matters the mind of youth should be left uncommitted. Indoctrination is the teaching of truth of which we all agree, and by indoctrination we mean such teaching as on the one hand tends to fasten ideas and attitudes in the growing youth. It is any type of teaching that will build attitudes in the growing youth. This would have to include all teaching. One would hardly find a teacher that does not have her own pet ideas concerning religion and education. Indoctrination is an attempt to influence one's pupils to accept one particular solution to a problem where there is a difference of opinion among bright minded persons as to what the answer really is. They must be bright minded persons.

John Dewey defined indoctrination as the result of every possible means to impress in the minds of pupils a set of political and economic points of view in preference to any others. There are some good arguments against indoctrination. We must have some kind of a social order. Any state or nation, whether a democracy or not, must have followers and firm believers in its doctrines. The boards of education in this country are quite unwilling to employ teachers belonging to a communist party.

Children should be permitted to hear all sides of a question. This is more important in the school than in the home. Indoctrination is contrary to the true spirit of education. Education involves the drawing out of the child. Education frees, while indoctrination binds. The strongest argument against indoctrination is the practical side. Those who oppose indoctrination rest their theory on the fact that there is too much indoctrination that makes for a narrow type of patriotism. If this is true, what are we going to do about it? I believe there is no way a school can escape indoctrination. The only question with which the school should be concerned is what shall it indoctrinate and not shall they indoctrinate.

If we assume democracy as the best type of government then we can say that we ought to indoctrinate children in its behalf. After all it will be their government and their country in which to live. Would it be better to let them read books on all denominations of the church and let them decide what church they want to belong to, if any?

If the teacher believes that interest is something in a child that can be aroused, then he as a teacher can select material that one should use. I believe that the teacher can select material that will satisfy the child's interest just as well. With this doctrine we need not permit them to read what they like and do as they please, since thru our suggestion they may like other things just as much. It leaves opportunity for the teacher and preacher to indoctrinate.

I should like to suggest some things that we might feel justified in indoctrinating. All of the following imply a belief in democracy:

1. Children should be taught to think critically.
2. Children should be indoctrinated to read controversial issues whether in political, social, or religious fields.
3. Children should be taught that the good life is the life that fits most closely into the lives of our existence.
4. They should be indoctrinated in choices and that those who make the belief that they must make choices and that those who make the most intelligent choices are those that study them most.
5. They should take an active and positive stand on social, religious, political and economic problems.
6. A child should be taught to realize the value of open mindedness toward the new and different.
7. They should be taught justice and fair play. The greatest problem of all ages was the difference between the parasites and those whom they were to devour.
8. They should be indoctrinated with an emotional desire to do the right with view points to judging the right.—DR. JESSE E. ADAMS, Head, Philosophy of Education Dept., University of Kentucky.

THE VALUE OF THE BANK

Today in every community in the United States there is a bank. Without them the plight of the community would be bad, indeed. Without them no great volume of business could be carried on.

Picture a community in which there are no banks to supply credit for sound business expansion. The bank has stood firmly behind business which has been a great benefit to the community. They have aided in building roads, bridges, and public buildings. Without this source of reliable credit many of these public facilities would be impossible and the community would suffer greatly from their absence.

Picture again what a community would be if there were no place to go for sound financial advice. For legal advice one would go to a lawyer—for medical advice one would go to a physician, but for sound financial advice one must go to someone who is experienced in financial affairs.—And who is better experienced than a banker? Aside from his business of taking deposits and lending money, a banker is anxious to promote any advance in the community's welfare because his prosperity is intimately bound up with the prosperity of the people who do business with him. As the town and state grow and prosper so does a bank grow and prosper with them.

The people who have large sums of money do not like to carry it around in their pockets or keep it in their homes. The first duty of a bank is to safeguard this money from fire and theft. If the bank did nothing more than this it would serve a very useful purpose, but it does much more. From the bank, farmers may obtain money in September to buy a carload of hogs. They fatten these hogs during the winter and in the spring sell them for a profit which more than pays the interest charges and loans. Or the bank will lend money to the farmer to buy land and take a mortgage on the land. We all realize we depend on farmers for a living, therefore we should be grateful to the banks for helping them. From the bank, too, the merchant or manufacturer may borrow money which he needs to buy raw materials or finished goods for stock, or perhaps tide him over until he collects money due him from his customers. Isn't the banker of some value to a man in the community if he lends him money to buy the hats or shoes or vegetables which he can sell and repay the banker, and still have enough to give him profit? Of course he is.

The value of the bank to the community is much greater than one might think. In fact the manufacturer couldn't carry on his work and we couldn't enjoy all the luxuries we have. About 95 percent of the business of this country is done by the use of credit. There is almost no limit to the services banks render a community.

It is the banker who steps in when there is a period of time between the production of an article and the payment of money for its sale.

In one sense a bank is simply a corporation engaged in the business of handling money. Sometimes banks are called "manufacturers of credit."

The funds which are loaned by the bank come largely from the money deposited by its customers. Therefore, we could call the bank your bank because it is operated for the people thru investing, protecting and loaning of funds and by the people thru their voice in the government which helps to regulate these banks. The man who entrusts his money to a bank does not, as a rule, think of it as a loan. In fact he puts it in for convenience, but the bank uses the money to lend to those who need it for business or personal reasons and are willing to pay interest for the use of it. This is one of the great services which a banker performs for a community.

Commercial banks do many worthwhile things for us. They change money, rent safe deposit boxes, buy and sell securities for its customers, collect the interest on their bonds, furnishes them with letters of credit which they can take to foreign countries and by presenting them to a bank receive funds for their use while abroad.

Banking is the inheritance of hundreds of years of study, experience, and progress. You know, of course, that long ago in the earliest days of man's history people used to exchange goods with each other. Later they used iron or wampum. Many strange things were used for money before the majority of the civilized world finally settled on gold. Of course gold was bulky and hard to handle and the average person found it dangerous to keep around the home so he went to a man in the community who had a strong box and a asked him to keep his money for him. Out of this grew the first function of a bank—to keep money safely for others. This is still the first consideration of every bank today.

The credit system does many things for us. To summarize, one might say:

1. It offers convenience and safety in business.
2. It encourages commercial transactions between people in different parts of the country and of the world.
3. It encourages business activity which could not be carried on if money had to be used.
4. It increases the number of business activities.
5. It encourages investments and savings by people who can lay by only a small sum at a time and would be unable or afraid to invest it profitably.
6. It economizes the precious metals.

Banks have taught us to place confidence in each other. We have learned to entrust our hard-earned money to a banker and he has rewarded our trust by an honest investment of our funds. Banks are not owned by monsters of finance located in large cities. They are not owned by a few individuals. They are not selfish organizations created to exploit the rich and grind down the poor. They are not the monopoly of any one man or group of men. Banks are some times criticized by people for not doing certain things—for not making a particular loan or for having service charges so that each account will pay for itself. Don't forget that these policies are made right in your own town by your own friends and citizens.

I want you to think of a bank in a two-fold way, that of a servant and a friend. As any other servant it renders certain services in exchange for an agreed upon remuneration. As a friend it is always ready to counsel one and advise it's clients when they seek its help.

Now in conclusion let us say that no other institution can do these things for a community. Every one of us depend upon a bank at some time in our life, why shouldn't we? The bank exists for our convenience. Why shouldn't we lend, borrow and help others? The bank stands on a firm foundation of financial experience deeply embedded in monetary accumulations and reaches out a helping hand to each of us who are sinking desperately into a mire of hopelessness. It helps our dreams materialize. It enables us to attend school, go into business, buy a home or to get married. Is there any other institution that can do these things for you? No! I think we can truly say a bank is the community's greatest helper.—Oration Delivered by Hazel Brown in the High School Auditorium, Monday Evening, April 17, 7:30 p.m.
